Romance, Farewell.
To Forbid Monkey Glands.
Red Wall St. Lights.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

HUNGARY puts an end to roving gypsy life. Those picturesque people, 50,000 of them in Hungary, must dress like others, live in one place, speak the Magyar language instead of their own, pay taxes or rent and render military service. In vain King Heraklitz protests. Gypsy romance is dead.

AS gypsies live, nomads, wandering from place to place, so we all once lived. When you look out of the window and "want to go somewhere," it is your nomadic ancestors coming to life.

WOMEN put an end to that careless wandering. They got tired of dragging babies and household goods around. They cultivated weeds, developing their seeds into all the grains we know, before the end of the stone age, according to Herve. That gave them a permanent food supply. Some woman tamed the first buffalo heifer calf, milked it when grown, providing food for her children.

GRADUALLY the human race settled down, and what we call civilization grew up. Now we have flats, frozen pipes, debts, buy corner lots, chase the dollar instead of the mammoth or mild aurochs, and call ourselves civilized.

HOOVER READY FOR FOUR-DAY KLAMATH RIVER FISHING TRIP

Outing Will Silence
Innuendos Against His Health.

800-MILE RIDE
Newspaper Men and Photographers Will be Guests.

By William K. Hutchinson.
PALO ALTO, Cal., July 23.—The four-day camping and fishing trip, on which Herbert Hoover will take his newspaper and photographer family to the Klamath river in northern California next week, will silence all Democratic innuendos against his health, it was declared here today by his closest friends.

The Hoover outing, arranged at first to give the Republican nominee some rest and recreation before plunging into his campaign for the presidency, they said, will demonstrate once and for all that he enjoys the best of health, has a powerful physique and is subject to none of the physical weaknesses that usually undermine office executives.

On the trip, the nominee and his party will ride about 800 miles in motor cars, travel by mule-back into the Siskiyou range to reach the Hoover fishing lodge, live out in the open by day and sleep beneath the stars at night. It was a question here whether the "tenderfoot" members of his party could match the pace certain to be set by the nominee.

Nominee Will Sleep in Open.
For some weeks past, rumors have reached his advisers that the Democrats plan attacks on Hoover's health. Such subtle campaigns have been known to rob a candidate of thousands of votes and the Hoover managers now feel the camping trip will destroy the effect of such attacks. They declared Hoover will show he can climb mountains, sleep in the open, get his meals at a campfire and come home in better health and spirits than when he left.

The nominee spent Sunday quietly at his home. With Mrs. Hoover and his son, Allan, he attended divine service at the University chapel and the sermon by the Rev. Boyce Tupper, a Presbyterian minister of Los Angeles. The divine service was an appeal for religious freedom to which Hoover listened attentively. He first declared Christianity was "Spiritual" and that "There can be no mathematical demonstration of God."
"God gave America the land of unlimited opportunity and freedom," the minister concluded. "And above all, (Continued on Page 8, Column 4)"

ATTACKS RASKOB
Former Mayor Speaks
in Two Churches
Sunday.

Charging that a vote for "Al Smith was a vote for the destruction of the constitution of the United States," V. A. Schreiber, superintendent of the Canton district of the Anti-Saloon league and former mayor of East Liverpool, called upon "loyal Americans" to rally to the support of Herbert Hoover and the Republican party at the November election, in two addresses here yesterday.

The former blacksmith mayor spoke in the First Church of Christ in the morning and occupied the pulpit of the First Baptist church last night. It was the Anti-Saloon league's field day in these two churches. Subscriptions to carry on the league's activities during the year were solicited.

Terming Gov. Smith the "highball candidate for president," Schreiber declared that the people of the United States would have an opportunity to vote for a candidate who was pledged to uphold the Eighteenth amendment or "Tammany's nullification candidate" who has "declared himself for booze."

Hits du Pont.
"Al Smith's record is wet from the time of his entrance into public life," Schreiber said. "When in the New York legislature he voted for a bill which would permit saloons near churches and schools and opposed local option. Mears and Collyer, a veteran pilot, flying the Fairchild cabin monoplane, "City of New York," landed at Miller Field, Staten Island, at 6:55 12 o'clock last evening. They immediately sped by motor to the Battery, New York City, from where they started on June 29, at 5:00:45 a. m.

Five hundred persons at Miller Field gave a mighty cheer when the travelers arrived. The Rev. Dr. C. T. Collyer, a minister of Baltimore, Md., father of Captain Collyer, was the first to greet them.

"Tailwind," the Selyham terrier, which the travelers had with them on their entire trip, also came in for much recognition, posing for the movie cameramen with both masters. Captain Collyer said the last few miles of their journey were the most difficult to negotiate with their plane, because of the low ceiling and the very thick fog.

The importance of being - - - well groomed

BEING well dressed inspires a man's confidence in himself as well as in the people with whom he comes in contact. The knowledge that his personal appearance is above reproach puts him at his ease under any and all circumstances. Whether the occasion be business or social, the well dressed man is never ill at ease.

Being well dressed does not necessarily involve an expensive nor elaborate wardrobe—it does, however, involve a thorough up-to-the-minute knowledge of "What the well dressed men are wearing today." Familiarity with this subject is quite easily acquired by reading the advertising of the men's furnishing goods stores which appear regularly in this newspaper. . . . This reading costs you nothing, and takes but little time, yet the knowledge thus acquired will materially assist you in being well dressed—economically.

ACTORS REQUIRE VIOLIN TO TEACH BEST WAY TO SAY "I LOVE YOU"

PARIS.—What is the trouble with many modern actors? They do not know how to say "I love you," so a violin has to play it for them.

That, in substance, is the plaint of Max Reinhardt, producer of "The Miracle," in an address to the Universal society of the theatre here. Reinhardt said the theatre is menaced by the noise, rush and conventionalities of large cities.

He explained that spectators should be actors to the extent of sympathizing emotionally with the characters on the stage during the progress of the play. "Both spectators and actors have been numbered by the mechanical existence we lead today.

"Passion and sentiments do not belong to our epoch. We have found it better to replace them by a series of conventional expressions that are now considered a part of our social equipment.

"We have uniform ways to smile, to sigh, and to love. We have ready-made expressions for any and all occasions, just as we have ready-made suits for any and all sizes.

"The social code has spoiled even the actor, the man who makes a business of expressing sentiments. When some actors say 'I love you' the violin has to play soft music to make up for a lack of soulful vibration.

"Without the music you would not be able to distinguish the difference between the 'I love you,' and 'How do you do?'

"The actor of other days, ostracized by society, may have been a wandering bohemian, but he undoubtedly developed stranger and more powerful characterizations.

"Today the flesh is willing but the soul is debilitated and the actor's interest is really elsewhere.

"The spectator must be part of the play. It is a mistake to believe the actor forgets his audience as he works up a strong climax.

"The thousands in the amphitheatre must be enthralled, trembling on the player's every word. Then he is enabled to cast aside all unnatural reserve and to give every ounce of his strength to the role.

Reinhardt believes, however, that the theatre will improve.

NAVOJOA, SONORA, Mexico, July 23.—Having paid their last respects to General Alvaro Obregon, who met death at the hands of an assassin, thousands of persons were making their homeward journeys today.

The burial, simple but impressive, was held at Huatabampo, a village southwest of here where the distinguished Mexican leader was born. Here General Obregon was laid at rest along side of his mother.

Harboring no desire for revenge, Senora Obregon remained in her hotel, surrounded by intimate friends and relatives. She will soon return to her ranch home at Cajeme.

"The only punishment I ask for the killer of Alvaro," she said, "is that he be brought here to see with his eyes the picture which he has created."

The special funeral train which brought General Obregon's body here will return to Mexico City either Tuesday or Wednesday.

Boost Good Roads

West Virginia, which in recent years has made great strides in road building, will vote in November upon the question of a $35,000,000 issue of state bonds for highway construction.

The proposal is of more than passing interest in Hancock county, just across the Ohio river, for approval of the plan will mean the building of a river highway which will connect Chester and New Cumberland. Routes via Pughtown or Newell have been suggested for the proposed road.

Lake, Ohio, which has made a remarkable advance in providing improved highways, the Mountain State has opened good roads to through traffic in a way that has attracted hundreds of motorists to the state. As a result West Virginia is reaping the benefits in obtaining its share of the millions spent by tourists.

The fact that money invested in good roads pays large dividends, especially in states which have scenery, is admitted. And this axiom should have some bearing when West Virginians go to the polls next fall.

Bill Tilden's Case

Big Bill Tilden has for years been a thorn in the side of certain gentlemen in control of the activities of the United States Lawn Tennis association. In fact, Big Bill is known as the stormy petrel of American tennis.

Just now Big Bill is in the sporting limelight again. He has been removed from the Davis Cup team, which is abroad. His removal means, more than likely, that America's chances of regaining this coveted international trophy are in peril.

Despite his expressed feeling of injustice, Tilden has the true spirit of sportsmanship. "We will win the cup yet," said he. "I hereby apply for the position as trainer of the American team."

The United States Lawn Tennis association has been seeking Big Bill's scalp for several years. It is because he is at odds with the ruling authorities of competitive tennis in their interpretation of the rule concerning player-writing of the sport. And it was a signed story by Mr. Tilden, following one of the Wimbledon matches, which resulted in his summary removal from the American team.

The United States Lawn Tennis association ruled that Tilden was reporting the match. Tilden claims he was only interpreting some of the action of the match in question. There is no way to tell, at this distance, what caused the row, because it is impossible to see the story in dispute.

But the United States Lawn Tennis association and Big Bill, ought to iron out their troubles, and stop this petty bickering which is doing tennis more harm than good. The truth is that, while the American organization outlaws player-writing, the French and other nations permit it, so that their players are allowed to do what America's are penalized for doing.

Potsdam-Paris Good Will

Word comes from Berlin that the French, eager to repay the good will trip to a Potsdam cabby to Paris, took their oldest and most evil-smelling automobile over to Wilhelmstrasse, as a means, in a way, of showing the esteem in which one nation holds the other. It is recorded that the welcoming party in Berlin took to cover from the smoke emitted by the wheezy and ancient petrol-propelled contraption—a Peugeot model of 1889.

It required two weeks to drive this old relic from Paris to Berlin, which is about the length of elapsed time required for the German cabby to negotiate the distance from Unter den Linden to Champs Elysees. At any rate, as regards the vehicles in which these good will trips were made, there was little, if any, difference, except that one may have been practically a generation older than the other.

The punch of the whole thing is, as the man in the street gets it, that in France and Germany they are gripped with what amounts to virtually an epidemic of good will, the only restrictions seemingly being that only those battle-scarred and tumbledown vehicles of about pre-France-Prussian war days be used.

South America's Air Door

Natal, Brazil, near which Major Delprete and Captain Ferrarin landed on their record-breaking flight from Rome, is the natural air door to South America for all air traffic from Europe and Africa. It is close to Brazil's northeastern corner, the point of land which the new world thrusts nearest the old.

Because of Natal's strategic geographic position in this respect the recently organized air mail line between Paris and Buenos Aires has established a flying field near the town. Natal also has figured in Brazilian maritime plans, and its harbor is being improved with a view to making it the first port of call for steamships between Europe and ports on the southeast coast of South America.

Cape St. Roque may be considered the real northeast corner of South America. It lies approximately 20 miles north of Natal. The intervening strip of coast is made up of low sand dunes, with here and there a village set among coco palms. Turos, where the second landing was made by the Italian fliers when they became lost in fog, is about 30 or 40 miles north of St. Roque.

Grandfather Champion

Major Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, of Philadelphia, who will be remembered by the sporting pentry as one of the ringside judges at Toledo upon the occasion when Jack Dempsey practically annihilated Jesse Willard, holds, among other titles, the championship of Bulgaria by virtue of his victory over Vladimir Nelson Atanasoff, the battling barber. Comes now Major Biddle with a denial of the rumor that he is about to retire. He reiterates his offer to defend the title against a Bulgarian grandfather of more than 50 years of age.

If there are no Bulgarian takers, the major's defi goes for the grandfathers of Serbia and Rumania in addition. Mayor Biddle aspires to be amateur grandfather heavyweight champion of the Balkans. It might be a solution of the Balkan problem at that.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C. July 23.—Perhaps the most successful lobby maintained in Washington is that of the American Legion, which keeps a legislative office at the capital city to look after bills affecting the welfare of ex-service men. The annual final bulletin of this committee has just been issued, outlining the accomplishments of the legion lobby during the first session of the 70th congress, which adjourned May 29 last. With apparently one exception, the legion secured the passage of every measure in which it was actively interested, and it had scores of interests.

Passage of the disabled emergency officers' retirement bill over the veto of President Coolidge was the spectacular accomplishment of the legion workers this year, but they got a great many other laws enacted without any such public attention focusing upon the operation. The World War veterans' act, under which the United States Veterans' bureau functions and spends more than half a billion dollars a year in aid to disabled veterans, was amended in thirteen particulars, extending relief in various directions to men not formerly coming under its requirements. The added benefits adopted by these amendments are estimated at a total of $5,500,000 a year to disabled veterans and their dependents.

The adjusted compensation, or bonus law, was amended in four respects, the chief amendment being one which extends for two years the time for filing applications. This amendment alone validates 28,000 applications by ex-service men who had failed to apply prior to January 1, 1928, when the old law expired.

A hospital construction bill was passed, authorizing 17 new veterans' bureau hospitals, or additions to present hospitals of such character as to increase their capacity by more than 100 beds each, and six improvements in the facilities of present hospitals. The appropriations authorized were $15,000,000, of which $7,600,000 was made available to begin construction.

The veterans secured appointment by the president of a special committee to investigate the operation of the veterans' preference provisions of the civil service laws. They had a bill passed extending the patent rights of veterans who held patents during the war period, the extension being for three times the length of the veteran patent holder's war service.

Besides these matters which are directly affecting veterans only, the legion takes an active interest in many other matters of legislation. It has several members on the American Battle Monument commission, and watches the appropriations for the work of that body. It is much concerned with all matters of national defense, and especially in keeping up the National guard and officers reserve corps, many of the officers of which are former World War men.

In all of these spheres of government activity there were laws passed by the last session of congress, and in many of them were written the recommendations of the legislative committee of the legion sets forth the year's accomplishments, and the whole makes a remarkable showing of what intelligent lobbying by a public-spirited organization can accomplish, and help to accomplish.

The unique thing about the legion's lobbying is that it is apparently all done by two or three men. In Washington the legion has two legislative officials and one specialist dealing with affairs of the disabled. The legion has a much larger legislative staff, however. In every state it has a volunteer legislative officer, and in every town where there is a post of the legion, there is a local legislative official. These men in the field are not full-time or salaried lobbyists. They are merely active, interested legionnaires who are kept posted from Washington by weekly bulletins, and who pass the word on to the whole million or so of legion members when it is time to write to their congressmen.

The three active legion leaders in Washington are Watson B. Miller, chairman of the legion's national rehabilitation committee, who specializes on matters affecting the veterans' bureau, John Thomas Taylor, vice-chairman, and Edward McE. Lewis, executive secretary, of the national legislative committee. Occasionally the national commander of the legion comes to Washington for a day or two to back up the work of this trio. Most of their backing, however, is from the always alert legion membership throughout the nation. A million live citizens who keep informed of what congress is doing, and planning to do, and not doing, get more results in legislation than many millions who only read in the paper a few high-lights of what has happened after it is all over.

Ritzy Rosalie

New makeup boxes have been added to the list of items subject to the craze for futuristic color and design, and Rosalie likes her very much. Although Jingles refuses to become enthusiastic over it, the utility boxes have no individual lids, and are lined with brilliantly colored papers, reminding one of envelope linings, which incidentally could be used if one were making a make-up box. Which leads to the thought that envelope linings also make nice material for paper doll dresses, although Rosalie has no little sister to take advantage of the idea.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Diary of a modern Peppys: Stirred out of sound sleep by rattling rat-a-tat and lay conjuring up tortures for the riveters, was foolish. And came an amusing Scotch telegram from Dr. Rockwell, the harlequinade, also word from Brooks John, the banjoist, that he has become a Maryland farmer.

To a barber shop where the boot-black wagged a shilling I could not brush a nickel out of my own pocket off his open palm, nor could I. Nor could Joe Moore or George Buckley. So to loiter in the Grand Central, being obsessed with a small town hankering for a depot.

To dinner at the Colony, but not paying the check, praise Allah. And George Jean Nathan then with Mrs. Willie K. Vanderbilt and others. Also Justine Johnson and Walter Wagner. Then to a dull show where I dozed, and home to bed.

Red caps at the Grand Central and other railroad terminals have a sense of propriety about carrying luggage for arriving celebrities. They match coats for the honor and thus avoid rushing and snatching. If the celebrity is a guest of the city, the red caps reflect the hospitality by not accepting a tip.

Energetic red caps often realize as much as $50 a week in tips. The average is around $30. Experience sharpens an uncanny power to spot the live wire. The most generous of all tippers is a new husband. Theatrical trouper and others who travel extensively are the most sparing. The biggest tip recorded is a hundred-dollar bill. It was bestowed by a gentleman whose dog in a frenzy at being released from a baggage car after a trip from California rushed joyously through the station and was recovered a block away.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Fifteen chemical elements are required to maintain the body in health and to provide it proper nourishment. When I told this to a friend of mine and read him the list he said: "That sounds more like an inventory of a drug store than of the essential elements in the construction of a modern fapper."

Of these elements, the fats, sugar and starches we eat supply three. Five more are given by the protein foods—chief of which are lean meat and the white of egg.

Of the other twelve there are three—fluorine, iodine and silica—which are present in the body in very, very small quantities. The remaining nine chemical elements are minerals which are needed to give strength to the bones and to supply substance to the muscles. They furnish the salt of the liquids and juices of the body. Without such minerals the fluid part of the blood, the gastric juices and all the various secretions would be water alone. In that event they would not possess the acidity, alkalinity, or other qualities essential to the proper action of these body fluids.

Without lime and iron and phosphorus we could not go far in our growth and activity. In Russia and the Central Empires of Europe, the lack of milk during the war deprived the children of their chief supply of lime. As a result there were many victims who suffered softening of the bones and the development of rickets.

Without an abundance of lime during pregnancy the bones and teeth of the expectant mother are drawn upon and she suffers in consequence. She may never recover from the evil effects of this lack.

Carrots, turnips, cabbages and oranges are rich in lime. Apples contain a good deal. Milk and cheese are the most available supply for the average person. Iron is needed for the blood. It assists in the process of carrying of the life-giving oxygen. Egg yolk, whole wheat, dried beans and peas, spinach, dried prunes and the nuts are rich in iron.

Phosphorus is needed by every cell of the body. The bones and muscles, and particularly the nervous system, cry for it. Fortunately this element is found in the foods which are rich in iron and lime, so if one is supplied all are likely to be.

The nitrogen and sulphur are furnished by the protein foods and these elements are present in pretty constant proportions—that familiar old political formula "sixteen to one," is maintained here. Sixteen percent of nitrogen to one percent of sulphur is about the ratio in the common foods of this type.

To have good health you need not be rich and need not live at the Ritz. You can easily provide yourself with eggs, milk, good bread, the common vegetables I have named, and the simple fare which will give you bone, muscles, brain substance and well functioning organs. Then you may add the luxuries and the articles which tickle your palate.

Other Editors Say

Case of Lowenstein.

One mystery succeeds another in the strange case of Capt. Alfred Lowenstein, Belgian financier, enormously enriched by the World War, whose career ended with a 4,000 plunge from an airship.

For days following his disappearance there was much speculation over whether he was really dead. Now that this fact is determined by the finding of his body in the English channel, there will be no less of guessing whether he was murdered a suicide, or fell to his death by walking through the wrong door of his plane.

A world which had only a detached interest in the fate of Lowenstein will be glad that the ghastly find in English channel has brought it one relief: It has laid for all time the prospect of Lowenstein's reappearance at many sections of the globe. If his death had not been established for the next half century at least the ghostlike figure of the adventurer would have been pecking to the world with a new invitation to solve the greatest riddle of his career.—Akron Beacon Journal.

Once Overs

Blame Yourself for Your Children's Mistakes.

Do your children make your guests feel embarrassed and uncomfortable? Do they repeat some of the things that you have said about these guests at some time?

Well, don't blame the child. You should expect the boys and girls to reflect your attitude or repeat your careless, perhaps critical remarks if you make them.

Perhaps you have complained that certain persons have come to your home too often.

You have grumbled, perhaps, that sleeping arrangements must be changed.

Don't be surprised if tiny Tim or Sally gives you away quite innocently.

It is always unwise for fathers and mothers to discuss coming guests unless something of a complimentary nature is said.

Then there are young people who plainly show their displeasure to their parent's visitors because the general routine must be disturbed—they are ungracious.

Parents should not stand for discourtesy of this nature.

If it becomes necessary to apply force to break such a spirit, this should be resorted to, even when company is present.

It is a mistake to permit children greater liberty when guests are present than they have when the family is alone.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night you find your very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fussy, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

When for one reason or another, health is poor and the doctor says, "This tooth must come out; the tonsils should be removed," his judgment is based on vital facts. Minor Adjustment May Eliminate Future Trouble.

"In time of peace, prepare for war"—that seems to be the idea of some of our very best diplomats. However, while war has nothing to do with this, we think it is a good suggestion that "in time of summer prepare for winter."
Every year the first cold days comes every heating man in town has his hands full answering emergency calls. People have tried to start their heating plants and found something wrong. They say uncomplimentary things about the plant because it won't work, and about the heating man because he can't get there in five minutes.
All that trouble might be eliminated simply by having the heating plant gone over now. W. C. Kinsey & Sons, Dresden Avenue heating and plumbing experts, will do the job for you very quickly and reasonably.
A minor adjustment now will mean a saving—the trouble won't be aggravated by forcing a fire. And you'll have the satisfaction of knowing that your heating plant will work when you want it to work.
Just telephone Kinsey's. They'll send a man to go over the whole heating system for a small service charge; he'll tell you then that the plant is O. K. or that it needs certain adjustments.
Now's the time to get your heating man on the job. You'll get quicker service and you'll probably avoid anything but minor adjustments.
Just telephone Kinsey's and they'll send a competent man to check your plant or attend to any other plumbing work you may happen to have.

SAYS MALMGREN WAS STRIPPED, LEFT TO DIE

Moscow Correspondent Makes Charge in Italia Tragedy.

SURVIVOR NAMED

Claim Capt. Zappi Wore Victim's Coat and Socks.

MOSCOW, July 23.—Sensational charges that Capt. Zappi, one of the survivors of the Italia tragedy, not only abandoned Dr. Finn Malmgren, the Swedish scientist, alive, but also partially stripped him of his clothing were made today by the correspondent of the Moscow newspaper Verchniye.

The correspondent is aboard the Soviet ice-breaker Krassin, which rescued Zappi and Captain Mariano from their perilous haven on an ice-floe.

The correspondent further claims absolute confirmation for the statement that Zappi, when rescued, wore Malmgren's overcoat and heavy woolen socks.

Altogether, the correspondent claimed, Zappi wore three coats and three pairs of heavy socks, while Mariano was lying on the ice scantily clothed in a single pair of socks, his uniform and overcoat.

As a result of his scanty garb, the correspondent charges, Mariano's leg froze, and its amputation was later necessary.

Gave Permission to Devour Body.

The correspondent states that a physician who examined the two men after they were rescued found that Zappi had been without food for only five days and not thirteen as he claimed. Mariano, on the other hand, had been suffering the pangs of hunger for a much longer period.

Expecting death momentarily, Mariano gave Zappi permission to devour his body after he died, the correspondent said.

He declares that while the seven survivors of the Italia rescued by the Krassin were aboard that vessel, they spent much time arguing over the necessity for an international investigation of the Noble expedition.

Noble Wanted to Aid Search.

Professor Samoylovich, head of the Krassin rescue expedition, today stated that when he visited General Noble aboard the Citta di Milano, the Italian leader of the ill-fated Polar expedition begged to be allowed to accompany the Krassin in its search for Capt. Amundsen's party and six missing men in the Alessandri group. Samoylovich said he consented with the understanding that the Soviet relief commission would have to approve. Noble, at the time, said the Italian government was against his participating in the rescue work. He appeared to be extremely nervous and depressed, Samoylovich said.

Italy to Make Inquiry.

ROME, July 23.—The Italian government will make an inquiry into the conduct of the Noble polar expedition, Premier Mussolini announced today.

In his announcement which was made at a cabinet meeting, Premier Mussolini protested against "the anti-Italian wave of criticism of the unlucky Noble expedition, whose members have shown courage worthy of universal respect."

The inquiry, the premier added, would not be opened until relief parties have exhausted every possibility of finding the missing Alessandri group—the six men who were carried away with the envelope of the Italia on May 25.

Rescue Ship Damaged.

MOSCOW, July 23.—The Russian ice-breaker Malmgren, sister ship of the Krassin, has been damaged in a gale while returning to Archangel to refuel, said a radiogram from the commander today.

The Malmgren, which was compelled to halt its rescue work by lack of coal, ran into a terrific storm upon entering the White sea. Waves dashed completely over the vessel and ice rammed a hole in the side of the hull. Repairs were made while the pumps were kept working at full speed.

Mariano's Death Reported.

LONDON, July 23.—Rumors were current today that Captain Mariano, rescued survivor of the Italia tragedy, had died of the effects of his long exposure to Arctic weather conditions.

A Central News dispatch from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, stated that there had been a death aboard the Citta di Milano, aboard which General Noble and the other rescued men of his expedition are now being cared for.

The dispatch said that the name of the dead man was being kept secret. Mariano's leg was being kept secret. Mariano's leg was being kept secret. Mariano's leg was being kept secret.

Russian Duke Cancels U. S. Trip.

Smith Drafts Notification Day Speech

Governor Determined to Have Ceremony Broadcast.

SEEKS HOOKUP

Prefers Wednesday or Thursday of Week of Aug. 20.

By Raymond J. Borst.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 23.—Although the date for his notification has not been fixed because of radio complications, Governor Al Smith expects to make a final draft this week of the address he will deliver on that occasion, it was indicated today.

Because he will deal extensively with every campaign issue in his notification speech, particularly prohibition and farm relief, the governor is determined to have the ceremony broadcast through radio stations in every part of the country. As yet, however, he has not been able to obtain assurances from the National Broadcasting company that the nationwide hookup can be secured for the hours on the night he has in mind.

Ceremony on Steps of Capital.

It is understood the governor has settled on the week of August 20 for the notification and that he would prefer either Wednesday or Thursday night if proper radio arrangements can be made.

The notification ceremony will be held on the steps of the state capital where for 20 years the governor has been a familiar figure, first as a member of the assembly, then as leader of that body, and finally as chief executive. In front of the capital there is a spacious park which can easily accommodate the 100,000 Democrats expected to attend for the event.

Mayor John Boyd Thacher this week will announce the appointment of a committee of leading citizens to aid in planning the details of the ceremony. The mayor already has announced that on the night of the notification all streets in the vicinity of the capitol will be closed to traffic.

Plans Schenck Visit.

Indications are that the governor will remain at the mansion all week. On Thursday night with Mrs. Smith and members of the family he will go to Schenck for the wedding of the daughter of Lieutenant Governor George R. Lunn.

There is a possibility that the governor may confer the latter part of this week with Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.

"I don't know as there is anything in particular that I would like to talk to Governor Ritchie about, but I would like to see him just the same," Smith said.

Mrs. Smith and other members of the family are understood to have urged the governor to take a short vacation either in the Adirondacks or the White mountains after he completes his notification speech.

TODAY

Perhaps we are nearer to civilization, but it seems a pity to suppress the gypsies, last fragment of once universal freedom.

A FEW years ago a great French doctor, Brown Sequard told the medical world that certain glands could be used to postpone old age. The medical world laughed heartily, as it did when Harvey announced the circulation of the blood.

SINCE then others have been at work. Veronoff is off to Brazil to plan new youth in foolish old men there, and the chamber of deputies actually favors a bill to forbid grafting in France and her colonies.

TRANSPLANTING monkey glands into human beings is "a menace to the country, and a divorce from nature," according to conservative science. The wonder is that any old fool should want to borrow the physical energy of an ape, to escape the peace of old age, nature's kindest gift to man.

WHEN an engineer drives his train ahead, in spite of red lights set against him, something unpleasant happens.

Wall Street speculators have been driving their train ahead, in spite of federal reserve high rates, 8 per cent call money and other danger signals, and nothing much has happened yet. Some lambs lost their lives in financial lives in a preliminary stamp. Stock prices keep creeping ahead, through the form of uncertainty. Perhaps things are not as bad as the big men think them. Nothing is more easily scared than a very rich man.

GENERAL MOTORS TRUCK COMPANY offers $5,000 in prizes for the best letter on delivery service—any writing not considered. Any truck is better than none, and better than horses. Trucks, properly representing and serving a business, represent an important problem.

COL. FRIEDSAM, head of Altman and Company in New York, was puzzled when he had to replace with automobile delivery wagons his stable of high stepping, beautiful horses and equipages. He told this writer: "My difficult problem is not efficiency, but beauty, escape from the commonplace."

Col. Friedsam solved his problem, but not easily. Other merchants are still wrestling with it.

ELLEN TERRY, who died Saturday, aged 80, honored and loved by her country, was not a great actress, comparable with Bernhardt or Duse. More than a great actress, she was an inspiration to the stage, to other women and to men.

All that she did was well done. She represented admirably self-respecting womanhood on the stage and in private life.

keep this a land of unrestricted religious and personal liberty.

Non-sectarian Services.

The services were in keeping with this thought. Hoover, a quaker, attended them with his neighbors of different creeds. Some Catholics were in the pews and the services were conducted on a non-sectarian, non-denominational program.

The nominee resumed work this morning on his acceptance speech. He hopes to conclude it by the middle of the week. At noon, he was to resume his role of candidate by playing host to Senator Hiram Johnson, his one-time political foe. Johnson has endorsed him and Hoover asked the senator to discuss plans for the coming campaign. By this action, Hoover averted any possibility of a split in the Republican party in California, such as cost Charles Evans Hughes the state in 1916 and brought about the election of Woodrow Wilson.

May Succeed Smith

Owen D. Young, head of the General Electric Co., who, it is confidently predicted, will be "drafted" to succeed Governor Alfred E. Smith as Democracy's leader in New York. The presidential nominee, however, has refused either to affirm or deny the report that he wishes thus to bolster the party's national and state tickets.

liquor enforcement measure and signed the repeal. According to Webster's definition he is a nullifier, pure and simple.

Schreiber then turned his guns on John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee. "If Raskob does like to be called 'a wet,'" Schreiber asked, "why did he jump in the lake? He says he's a Republican. He's nothing in my opinion."

The Democratic party is going to have a war chest in this year's campaign. They have Raskob, du Pont and a lot of other multi-millionaires whose patriotism is not above their belt lines with them, and they're going to have plenty of money to spread their wet propaganda.

Sees Break in Solid South

"The Democratic party has been turned over to the Tammany's tiger, its claws still wet with the blood of every Democratic candidate for president during the last 16 years. Now they come to the people with this soporific wet, super-nullificationist—Al Smith. There are not enough wets and nullificationists in the United States to paddle Smith up the Potomac river on a raft of beer barrels and put him in the White House. I am against any man who is for liquor and the tearing of the constitution of the United States to pieces."

"This is the year when the Democrats' hold on the solid south is going to be broke."

"The president has the appointive power in naming 40,000 persons whose work is the enforcement of prohibition. Put wet men in these jobs and make prohibition the farce which the liquor interests would like to see it made. Within four years the entire personnel of the supreme court which has held overages to contain more than one-half of one per cent to be intoxicating may be changed."

Schreiber also discussed the state campaign.

Praises Judge Lones.

Schreiber praised Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones, Wellsville, who was in the audience, saying that "Columbian county voters had elected a judge of the common pleas court at the last election who had been a big help in the enforcement of liquor laws."

"This county should feel proud of its common pleas court," the Anti-Saloon League speaker declared amid applause.

Schreiber in referring to the days when he was mayor here.

"When I came to town about 30 years ago East Liverpool had 82 saloons. Later this was reduced to 54 and then cut to 43. I remember when 34 prisoners faced me in court one Monday morning."

Supplementing Schreiber's talk at the First Baptist church last night the Rev. A. H. O'Brien said that "Al Smith advocates Canada's plan of control of the liquor traffic for the United States" and added that "the New York governor thinks more of Canada than he does of the United States."

Kiwanis to Discuss Proposed New Road

State Senator Harry M. Carpenter Guest at Tuesday Lunch; Commissioners, Railroad Officials to Attend.

State Senator Harry M. Carpenter of Steubenville, Jefferson County Auditor Lockwood and Jefferson county commissioners will meet Columbiana county commissioners, County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk, and officials of the Cleveland division of the Pennsylvania railroad company, headed by Superintendent Dobson, at the Kiwanis club luncheon tomorrow at noon in the First United Presbyterian church in Wellsville.

Principal object of the luncheon meeting will be to ascertain progress on the construction of the proposed new route of the Ohio river road between Yellow Creek and Wellsville, connecting with the recently improved section below the children's home at Yellow creek.

Senator Carpenter, speaking here recently, discussed preliminary steps for the construction of the new road, which would mean the shifting of railroad and street car tracks toward the river from their present sites and the building of the road along the hillside above the tracks.

Maps in the possession of H. F. Brown, Toronto, resident engineer on the "Narrows" improvement, show the route of a proposed bridge across Yellow Creek and other details.

T. A. Hibbins will be chairman for the Kiwanis meeting tomorrow.

British M. D. Finds Women Pay Too Big a Price For Success

Sees Danger in Modern Woman's "Dual Life"

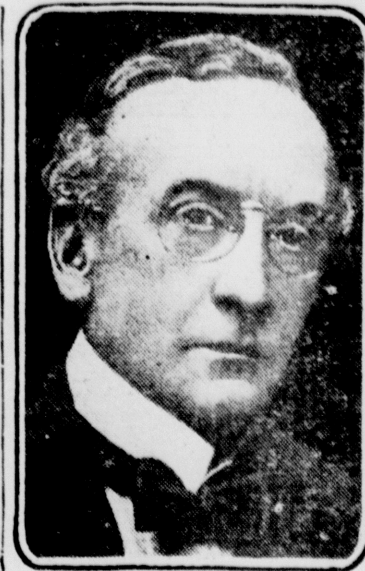

Overdeveloped "Fight" Glands

By SHIRLEY KIRKE
(International Illustrated News Staff Writer)

DOES business unfit women for success in marriage? Dr. Leonard L. B. Williams, one of England's best known physicians and Fellow of the Royal Society of Medicine, brings to this perplexing question the latest findings of science.

Dr. Williams is the son of the late Leonard Williams of Deudraeth Castle, Wales. Educated in England, Scotland, France and Germany, he early became interested in problems of the glands, on which he is one of the greatest authorities in England.

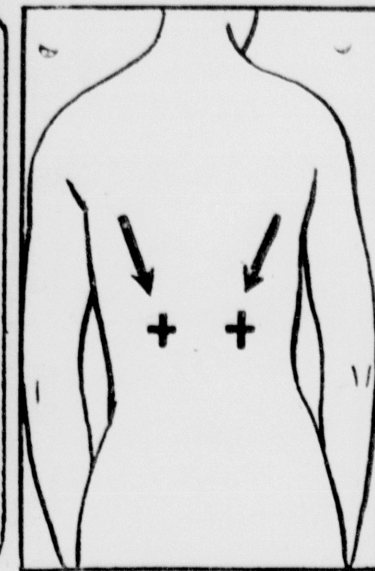

In Dr. Williams' view, the question depends entirely on the glands, these mysterious bodily elements which determine "whether you are tall or short, dark or fair, clever or stupid, energetic or lethargic, male or female." The struggle of modern business, he declares, tends to overdevelop woman's adrenal gland, "the male element which lurks in every female," the "gland of fight."

DR. LEONARD L. B. WILLIAMS

The result? When she turns to marriage and maternity she often finds she cannot divest herself of the dominating influence of this overdeveloped "masculine" gland—that she is a "failure in adaptation."

Dr. Williams is famous in England as the originator of the "annual overhaul," or yearly physical test, for life insurance. "In examining candidates for life insurance," he declared in an interview here today, "I frequently see people who, though they claim to be well, are nevertheless much below concert pitch. They are not ill, but they are all."

"For such people," he continued, "I should recommend less feasting and more yeasting."

"Yeast is more than a medication—it rouses the system to full physiological efficiency, of assimilation and excretion. If it can cure successive crops of boils, as I have known it to do, it must possess a power of physical purification superior to all the purgatives in the pharmacopoeia."

Youngest in Olympics

Dempsey Tutors Heeney In Best Methods Of Handling Champ

Tells Tom He Must Try To Break Gene's Holds

Demonstrates Clinch Breaking in Loft of Anzac's Quarters; Doubts if Tunney Can Tie up Challenger Very Long.

By Sid Mercer.

FAIR HAVEN, N. J., July 23.—The old barn loft at Rumson farm kennels where Tom Heeney retires for his rubdown after the boxing matinees was the scene of a heart to heart talk between Jack Dempsey and Tom Heeney late yesterday afternoon.

Tunney Insists He'll Fly

"Won't Play" if Tex Denies Him Trip in Plane.

NEW YORK, July 23.—It would be a strange thing, indeed, if, after all the pains I have taken with the situation, there would be no fight for the heavyweight championship of the world on Thursday night, but, if you think I'm turning comic in the matter, you ought to talk to Dudley Field Malone, the barrister. Dudley, or Deadie, if you insist, was said to have been around Madison Square Garden today intimating to Tex Rickard that such may prove to be the case and the only thing that served to give the young man a bearing is the understanding that he was speaking for the boy friend, brother Tunney himself.

The writer unfortunately cannot vouch for what Dudley said. He merely can tell you what he is said to have said, the authority for same being an official of the Garden corporation. The alleged statement, in effect, was that, if Rickard persisted in getting out his injunction restraining brother Tunney from flying hither to from Speculator on the morning of the fight, the boy friend would be so miffed that he wouldn't come to Mr. Rickard's party at all.

Malone Gene's Legal Aide.

Dudley has been Tunney's barrister, off and on, for several years. It was my understanding that recently the connection in question was off because it was out, after the manner of a superfluous hair or something. But when he turned up to heckle Rickard over the week end, the inference was that it was on again, for Dudley quickly declared himself as representing brother Tunney in the aerial or perhaps merely airy controversy now raging.

The status of the matter otherwise remained as was, this morning. Brother Tunney insists that he will fly down to the fight on Thursday, a distance of 200 miles, with Benit Balchen, pilot for Commander Byrd's trans-Atlantic flight, at the controls. Rickard says the good man has no right thus to endanger his, Rickard's, interests to say nothing of Heeney's and those of the good, old pay-trons, laugh them down, laugh them down. Rickard also says that he will enjoin the gentleman if he does not alter his plans before sundown today.

He was expressing himself along these lines this morning when Dudley uttered his threat that, of all the millions who are planning to stay away on Thursday night, one of them might prove to be brother Tunney.

Personally, it is my hope some day to give you a time exposure of a man steadily staying away from more than a half million dollars. I am working at present on an idea that will portray this scene in all its inf-

The milling thousands had scrimmaged with Dempsey for two hours and, in lesser degree had ruffled the immaculate attire of Commodore Tex Rickard and fragments of the six hundred millionaires who had steamed down to Fair Haven in Tex's yacht.

Dempsey, alone with the challenger, and they say he may fight next year if the title changes hands next Thursday, gave the new contender his advice on how to fight Gene Tunney.

Dempsey laid much stress on the necessity for breaking the champion's holds. In order to illustrate his points, he induced Heeney to sit upon the rubbing table and then brought him to his feet for some actual clinching and clinch breaking holds.

Dempsey admits that Tunney was able to handle him in the clinches at Chicago, but after he tested the Anzac's strength at close quarters, he doubted that Tunney would be able to tie up Heeney for more than a few seconds at a time.

M'LARNIN PRIMES FOR LOYAZA BOUT

DETROIT, July 23.—Ten days intensive training was ahead of Jimmy McLarnin, coast lightweight, as he prepared today for a hard workout to fit him for his ring battle with Stan Loyaza, the Chilean, August 2.

McLarnin boxed nine rounds Sunday.

WALKER MAY BOX TOMMY LOUGHRAN

WILKES BARRE, Pa., July 23.—Mick Walker, middleweight champ, may be the challenger of Tommy Loughran for the light heavyweight title, it was learned here today.

Jack Kearns has been invited, according to word in local ring circles, to send his champion Mickey against Loughran in a bout to be held here on September 15, planned by promoter Morgan Bird.

Interesting details but am sorry to state that the apparatus isn't quite perfect for the present emergency.

Rickard Opposes Flying.

But it is fact, not fancy, too, that Rickard and the boy friend are putting on no act with this controversy. Rickard almost swooned when he learned that Tunney was flying to Philadelphia from Stroudsburg for the first Dempsey fight in 1928. He has been against flying fighters ever since. As for brother Tunney, he means to fly down from Speculator or if he really meant to use other means of transportation, he would be leaving the camp not later than tomorrow night. Besides that, you don't select an international figure like Balchen for the purpose of furthering an intended hoax. It might be mentioned, in this connection, that there was no hoax about his illness during the Stroudsburg to Philadelphia flight.

No, this strange man, Gene Tunney, undoubtedly intends to go flying on one of the most important days of his life.

The Knockout Thrill

WHEN Tom Heeney was chosen by Tex Rickard to meet Gene Tunney in this year's Battle of the Century a cry immediately went up that neither of the big boys carried the old sleep-producing wallop, and, as a consequence, the affair would be as colorless as a muslin sheet tossed on a snow-covered field.

The boys who support the back busters have grown accustomed to seeing good healthy socking in the ranks of the heavyweights when it came to these championship affairs. Naturally, they rather bemoaned the fact that two scrappers, neither of whom carries a K. O. punch, were to battle for the honor.

They were rather inclined to listen to Tex Rickard's prediction of a gate which would run from a million and a half to two million by laughing up their sleeves. They couldn't take Tex seriously. They couldn't figure how the public could be inveigled into loosening up that sort of coin on a boxing match when the past history of the classic has always featured at least one fellow with a terrific punch.

Now, however, with the big bout only a few days away, the complexion of the affair seems to have changed. About a month ago the word sprinkled out of Speculator, N. Y., the training camp site of the champion, that Tunney had regained his knockout punch. According to the report, Gene was again using his right hand, and with enough accuracy and power to satisfy the customers who like their heavyweight championship bouts served up with heavy socking.

Gene, as will be recalled, used to be in the habit of bowling over his opponents. In fact, he had a record of fifteen consecutive knockouts immediately after his return from service with the Marines in France. It was with this right hand wallop that he made his first bid for boxing fame. But he developed an inflammation of the skin of the bone, known technically as periostitis, and his K. O. punch disappeared. Following his layoff at Miami Beach last winter, however, it is said that he is tossing that knockout right with a savagery heretofore unknown.

Billy Vidabeck, the sock barometer of the Tunney camp, who has been training with the champion for the past three years, says that Tunney is socking across his right with the speed of a fly-weight's jab and with power of a pile driver. Vidabeck says also that it is next to impossible to get out of its path, and adds that somebody is sure to get hurt in all of Tunney's future bouts.

If Gene has really regained the power in that right hand of his the customers may yet see a knockout punch delivered Thursday night at the Yankee Stadium. Even Heeney may have been nursing along a secret wallop which he will turn loose against the champion and if both of the battlers should spring a surprise on the audience at the Yankee Stadium what a fight it would be! What a fight!

All of the former heavyweight champions were what is known in the pugilistic racket as "sockers." Dempsey, Jeffries, Fitzsimmons and old John L. Sullivan were outstanding examples of the spirit of sock. It was their reputation of crashing an opponent down which packed the customers in to see 'em and the public still seems to have a craving for the pile driving wallop. And if Thursday night's entertainment ment develops a new sock artist the boys who miss seeing it will be out back of the barn kicking themselves Friday morning.

Ceramic Golfers Victors

Beat Stubbers, 76-67, in Inter-club Match.

EAST LIVERPOOL golfers' inter-club match salute is still clean today as a result of their victory over the Steubenville Country club team Saturday on the local course.

The match was the first between the two contingents this season and marked the third straight win for the East Liverpool club over the Jefferson countians.

The local golfers copped both matches with Steubenville last summer and, as a result, hold the championship trophy that goes to the best performers in the annual contests.

The victors will endeavor to bring the cup back for the second straight year when they play at Steubenville on Saturday, August 24.

The afternoon program lacked a little of the color of previous engagements with Joe M. Wells, of East Liverpool, and Bob Wintringer, of Steubenville, absent from the lists.

Showers, too, prevented the members of both teams from showing their best.

"Sonny" Deshler Sets Pace For Industrial League Pitchers

Turk Nash Right Handers Leads Circuit for Half

Wins Five Games, Loses Two for .714 Rating; "Hap" Easton, Wellsville, With Seven, Loses Three, for .700 Mark.

"Sonny" Deshler, right hand hurler for Turk Nash, runners-up to Wellsville in the first half pennant chase, finished the initial section of play as the leading City Industrial League pitcher, in point of games won and lost, with "Happy" Easton, portside flinger for Wellsville, running a close second.

According to averages now being compiled, Deshler performed in 11 contests, won five and lost two.

Easton participated in the same number of games for Wellsville, won seven and lost three, which leaves little to choose between the two hurlers, but the percentage column gives Deshler 14 points of an edge, the standing being:

Cubs, A's Win But Can't Gain

Face Fruitless Task in Chasing Cards, Yanks.

By LESS CONKLIN

NEW YORK, July 23.—The Athletics and Cubs are beginning to arrive at the conclusion that trying to overhaul the Yankees and Cardinals is like cheating at solitaire—there's little profit or pleasure in it. During the interseasonal series just concluded the A's won twelve games out of sixteen—the best record in the league—but the Yanks copped twelve out of eighteen and are 16½ games in front. The Cubs won thirteen out of seventeen on their home lot but gained only a game and a half on the Cards, whom they trail by four games.

The rejuvenated White Sox, with ten wins in seventeen starts, were the only other American league team to get better than an even break. Features of the National league were the spurt of the Pirates, who won eleven out of fourteen, and the flop of the Giants, who dropped to fourth place. Each of the western teams in the senior circuit won at least two-thirds of its games.

Haley and Hurst, both hit for the circuit as the Cardinals nosed out the Phillies in the ninth, 8 to 7.

Rec'd held the Giants to four hits, beating them, 4 to 2.

The Pirates nosed out Brooklyn, 6 to 5, after Dazzy Vance had whitewashed them, 5 to 0. Vance whiffed eight batters, bringing his strikeout total for the season to 112. Pat Malone, the speedy boy of the Cubs, is his nearest rival with 92.

Cincinnati came from behind to nip Boston, 5 to 4. Washington trounced Detroit, 8 to 2, and jumped ahead of Cleveland to fifth place. The Indians took an 8 to 5 beating from the Browns.

K. C. SOFTBALLERS LOSE ONE, COP TWO

Knights of Columbus softball team won two out of three from the Fredericktown nine yesterday afternoon at Fredericktown.

The Knights dropped the opener, 12 to 9, but copped the second and third via the shutout route, 2 to 0 and 1 to 0. Smith and McKeever were batterymates for the Knights. Miller and Karnes for Fredericktown.

Short Ship Follows Circuit. MARION, O.—Following the close of the Mansfield meet the Ohio Short Ship Circuit horses will move here for a five-day trotting and pacing season, July 30-Aug. 3. Races will be conducted under the Pullman plan, which gives all classes of horses opportunities to gain purse awards.

Vance Blanks Bucs in Opener But Kremer Cops Second

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 23.—Dazzy Vance limited the Pirates to four solid blows and copped the opening tilt of a double header here yesterday by the shutout route, 5 to 0, but Ray Kremer came back in the windup to pitch the Buccaneers to a 6-5 conquest.

In the opening tilt Harry Ricoda bounced the ball into the open seats back of left field for a homer with one on.

Kremer went the full route for the visitors in the second game while five hurlers worked for the Robins.

Front Drive Mystery Car In Speed Drive

Hepburn to Race Miller Creation at Altoona.

ALTOONA, Pa., July 21.—The mysterious front-wheel drive racing car whose every detail has been cloaked in secrecy since its construction several months ago at Los Angeles by Harry Miller, celebrated American engineer, is to compete in the International Speed Sweepstakes here at the Altoona speedway on Saturday, August 18.

Ralph Hepburn, former world motorcycle champion who has won renown in the past three years as a pilot of racing automobiles, was named by Miller as the driver for the unique car, said by racing authorities to be one of the fastest ever built.

Rumors of the special car being built by Miller were heard last spring shortly after the late Frank Lockhart began his preparations at Dayton, Ohio, to set a new world straightaway record, and while no known tests were held on any course, experts declare the car would surpass the phenomenal mark set by Lockhart a year ago at Muroc Lake of 171 miles an hour.

Lockhart's car and this new development of Miller's genius are both of only 91 cubic inch piston displacement, which is about half the power space in a Ford motor. Lockhart's was of the conventional rear-wheel drive design.

Engineers already gathered here from all over the country for the August 18 classic say that the rumored intense speed of Miller's new car must be due to the huge supercharger, which can be seen projecting above the gleaming motor, and the intricate air cooling device which permits motor speeds in excess of 5000 revolutions a minute.

The new car is expected to make its first appearance on the giant board bowl here within the next two weeks. Hepburn stated he was anxious to begin practicing with his mount just as soon as the army of workmen has completed the elaborate program of replacements in the racing deck, being made to lessen the hazards facing the drivers in their bitter contest on August 18.

The advance crews of mechanics and other attaches have already started ed flowing into Altoona, getting their special garages ready for the racing cars, which will begin to arrive in a few days.

Optimistic Smile

This intimate study of Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight champion, shows him smiling contentedly as he thinks of the coming fight with Tom Heene in New York. Billy can't see anything to it but Gene, of course.

Mystery at Styles

A Mystery Serial That Defies Solution

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

"You are sure it was Mr. Inglethorp's voice you heard?"

"Oh, yes, sir, whose else's could it be?"

"Well, what happened next?"

"Later, I came back to the hall; but it was all quiet. At five o'clock, Mrs. Inglethorp rang the bell and told me to bring her a cup of tea—nothing to eat—to the boudoir. She was looking dreadful—so white and upset. 'Dorcas,' she says, 'I've had a great shock. I'm sorry for that, m'm.' I says, 'You'll feel better after a nice hot cup of tea, m'm.' She had something in her hand. I don't know if it was a letter, or just a piece of paper, but it had writing on it, and she kept staring at it, almost as if she couldn't believe what was written there. She whispered to herself, as though she had forgotten it was there: 'These few words—and everything's changed.' And then she says to me: 'Never trust a man, Dorcas, they're not worth it.' I hurried off, and got her a good strong cup of tea, and she thanked me, and said she'd feel better when she'd drunk it. 'I don't know what to do,' she says. 'Scandal between husband and wife is a dreadful thing, Dorcas. I'd rather hush it up if I could.' Mrs. Cavendish came in just then, so she didn't say any more."

"She still had the letter, or whatever it was, in her hand?"

"Yes, sir."

"What would she be likely to do with it afterwards?"

"Well, I don't know, sir, I expect she would lock it up in that purple case of hers."

"Is that where she usually kept important papers?"

"Yes, sir. She brought it down with her every morning, and took it up every night."

"When did she lose the key of it?"

"She missed it yesterday at lunch-time, sir, and told me to look carefully for it. She was very much put out about it."

"But she had a duplicate key?"

"Oh, yes, sir."

"Dorcas was looking very curiously at him and, to tell the truth, so was I. What was all this about a lost key? Poirot smiled."

"Never mind, Dorcas. It is my business to know things. Is this the key that was lost?" He drew from his pocket the key that he had found in the lock of the de spatchcase upstairs.

"Dorcas' eyes looked as though they would pop out of her head."

"That's it, sir, right enough. But where did you find it? I looked everywhere for it."

"Ah, but you see it was not in the same place yesterday as it was today. Now, to pass to another subject, had your mistress a dark green dress in her wardrobe?"

"Dorcas was rather startled by the unexpected question."

"No, sir."

"Are you quite sure?"

"Oh, yes, sir."

"Has anyone else in the house got a green dress?"

Dorcas reflected.

"Miss Cynthia has a green evening dress."

"Light or dark green?"

"A light green, sir, a sort of chiffon, they call it."

"Ah, that is not what I want. And nobody else has anything green?"

"No, sir—not that I know of."

CHAPTER 9.

Poirot's face did not betray a trace of whether he was disappointed or otherwise. He merely remarked:

"Good, we will leave that and pass on. Have you any reason to believe that your mistress was likely to take a sleeping powder last night?"

"Not last night, sir, I know she didn't."

"Why do you know so positively?"

"Because the box was empty, sir. She took the last one two days ago, and she didn't have any more made up."

"You are quite sure of that?"

"Positive, sir."

"Then that is cleared up! By the way, your mistress didn't ask you to sign any paper yesterday?"

"To sign a paper? No, sir."

"When Mr. Hastings and Mr. Lawrence came in yesterday evening, they found your mistress busy writing letters. I suppose you can give me no idea to whom these letters were addressed?"

"I'm afraid I couldn't, sir. I was out in the evening. Perhaps Annie could tell you, though she's a careless girl. Never cleared the coffee cups away last night. That's what happens when I'm not here to look after things."

Poirot lifted his hand.

"Since they have been left, Dorcas, leave them a little longer, I pray you. I should like to examine them."

"Very well, sir."

"What time did you go out last evening?"

"About six o'clock, sir."

"Thank you, Dorcas, that is all I have to ask you." He rose and strolled to the window. "I have been admiring these flower beds. How many gardeners are employed here, by the way?"

"Only three, now, sir. Five, we had before the war, when it was kept as a gentleman's place should be. I wish you could have seen it then, sir. A fair sight it was. But now there's only old Manning, and young William, and a new-fashioned woman gardener in breeches and such-like. Ah, these are dreadful times!"

"The good times will come again, Dorcas. At least, we hope so. Now, will you send Annie to me here?"

"Yes, sir. Thank you, sir."

"How did you know that Mrs. Inglethorp took sleeping powders?" I asked, in lively curiosity, as Dorcas left the room. "And about the lost key and the duplicate?"

"One thing at a time. As to the sleeping powders, I knew by this." He suddenly produced a small cardboard box, such as chemists use for powders.

"Where did you find it?"

"In the washstand drawer in Mrs. Inglethorp's bed room. It was Number Six of my catalogue."

"But I suppose, as the last powder was taken two days ago, it is not of much importance?"

"Probably not, but do you notice anything that strikes you as peculiar about this box?"

I examined it closely.

"No, I can't say that I do."

"Look at the label."

I read the label carefully: "One powder to be taken at bedtime, if required. Mrs. Inglethorp. No. 1. See nothing unusual."

"Not the fact that there is no chemist's name?"

"Ah!" I exclaimed. "To be sure, that is odd!"

"Have you ever known a chemist to send out a box like that, without his printed name?"

"No, I can't say that I have."

I was becoming quite excited, but Poirot damped my ardour by remarking:

"Yet the explanation is quite simple. So do not intrigue yourself, my friend."

An audible creaking proclaimed the approach of Annie, so I had not time to reply.

Annie was a fine, strapping girl, and was evidently labouring under intense excitement, mingled with a certain ghoulish enjoyment of the tragedy.

Poirot came to the point at once, with a business-like briskness.

"I sent for you, Annie, because I thought you might be able to tell me something about the letters Mrs. Inglethorp wrote last night. How many were there? And can you tell me any of the names and addresses?"

Annie considered.

"There were four letters, sir. One was to Miss Howard, and one was to Mr. Well, the lawyer, and the other two I don't think I remember, sir—oh, yes, one was to Ross's. The other one, I don't remember."

"Think," urged Poirot.

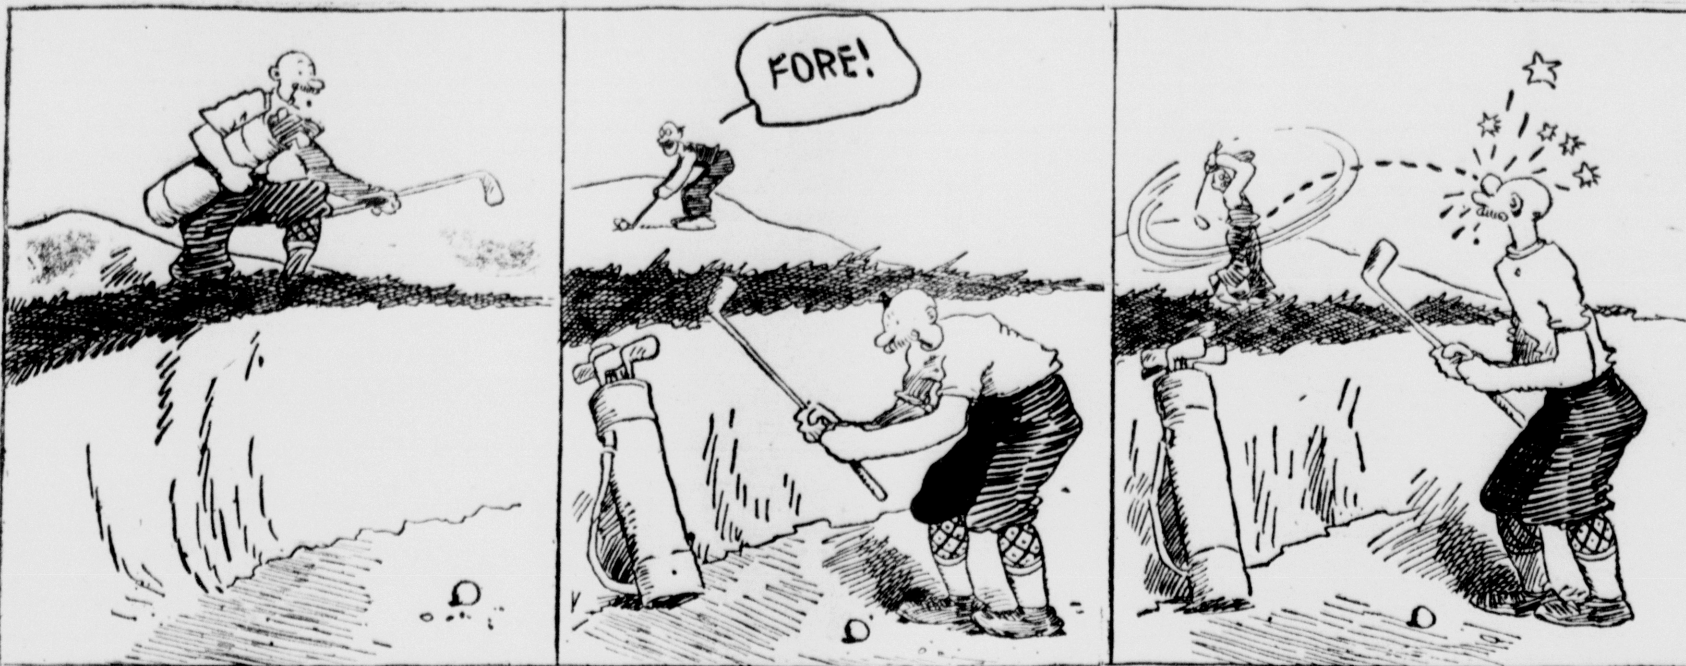

Annie racked her brains in vain.

"I'm sorry, sir, but it's clean gone. I don't think I can have noticed it."

"It does not matter," said Poirot, not betraying any sign of disappointment. "Now I want to ask you about something else. There is a sauceman in Mrs. Inglethorp's room with some coco in it. Did she have that every night?"
